REGISTRATION FOR THE SUMMER/FALL 2015 TERM BEGINS ON APRIL 6, 2015
April 1, 2015

Dear English Major:

In order to help you during the pre-registration and advisement periods, this package includes the following:

- a list of English courses to be offered for Summer/Fall 2015
- English Major advisors and their office hours
- Graduation with Honors in English
- English major requirements

We have also enclosed worksheets at the end of the booklet to enable you to see the progress you are making toward graduation as an English major. Please fill it in prior to meeting with an advisor.

If you are nearing graduation, have a 3.0 average, and are thinking about graduate school, you may wish to consider the Master of Arts in English program we offer at the College of Staten Island. This thirty-credit M.A. offers options in Literature and Rhetoric. The English office has copies of a brochure describing the program. Professor Maryann Feola, Graduate Coordinator, would be glad to talk with you about it.

Please note on the list of English major advisors that Professor Goodland is chief advisor for majors in literature; Professor Cate Marvin is chief advisor for majors in writing; Professor Lee Papa is chief advisor for majors in dramatic literature; and Professors Jason Bishop and Christina Tortora in linguistics.

We hope the enclosed material is of help to you. If you have any questions, please come in to talk with any of the English major advisors. We have an updated English Department website which you can visit at http://www.english.csi.cuny.edu/.

On behalf of the Department of English,

Professor Lee Papa, Chairperson
Choosing English As Your Major:

NOTES ON ENGLISH MAJOR AND CAREERS

1. The English Major is desirable preparation for a number of careers. Teaching is only one possibility among many. If you are interested in teaching on the high school level, you should talk with someone in the Education Department as well as with an English Department advisor.

2. If you choose a non-teaching career, follow these steps:

- Examine your personal interests and skills, and then examine careers that seem to place the highest value on these interests and skills. The Counseling Center at CSI can help you examine your interests and skills. People there can help you explore the variety of occupations English majors can pursue.

  1. It is probably best to contact the Center as early in your college career as possible. Appointments can be arranged by phone (718-982-2391) or in person (Room 1A-109).

  2. The Career and Scholarship Center can also help you develop job search techniques, and they can prepare you to write your resume and get set for employment interviews. Appointments can be arranged by phone (718-982-2300) or in person (Room 1A-105).

- Pursue the invaluable understanding and appreciation that come through breadth and depth in literature, including dramatic literature. Or consider a concentration in writing or linguistics. Focus especially on analyzing, interpreting, research, reorganization, rephrasing, and on presenting arguments logically, succinctly, and clearly.

- Choose a minor or a number of electives that appear to relate closely to the field in which you plan to seek employment. Do everything possible to gain "field experience" in this area. Participate in a non-teaching internship, if it is available at the college. If such a program is not available, contact businesses and industries personally about management training, and be willing to start at the bottom while learning.

- Prepare for the chosen field of interest rather than only for further study in English. Avoid the common assumption that an English major is just "into English." Take a positive attitude toward the chosen field, and accept the fact that it is just as important as any other field pursued by a major in the department.

REQUIREMENTS ALL ENGLISH MAJORS MUST FULFILL:

Advisement:

Before registering, all majors must seek advisement. In fact, the College enforces advisement by placing what is commonly known as a “stop,” “service indicator,” or “hold” on your record, which can only be “removed” once you have received advisement from a full-time faculty member in the English Department.

Sometimes students view advisement as a mere annoyance. However, rest assured, we need to advise you because we want to make sure that you do not register for classes that you do not need to take in order to graduate!

Courses:

No matter which concentration you choose, THESE THREE CLASSES ARE REQUIRED:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Course Code</th>
<th>Course Title</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>ENL 290</td>
<td>INTRODUCTION TO THE STUDY OF LITERATURE*</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ENL 300</td>
<td>BRITISH AND AMERICAN LITERARY TRADITIONS</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ENL 310</td>
<td>WORLD LITERATURE IN CONTEXTS</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

*It is preferable that you complete ENL 290 (Introduction to the Study of Literature) early on in your coursework.

Students who have passed ENH 218, ENL 376, or ENL 365, do NOT need to retake the courses.

NEW REQUIREMENTS FOR THOSE DECLARING AFTER JUNE 30, 2013:

Note on the number of courses (credits) needed to complete the major:

- The new set of general education or core requirements is called PATHWAYS.
- All English majors who opt into PATHWAYS must take at least 11 ENL courses (44 credits) to complete the major.
- Students who have declared their English major prior to July 1, 2013 and who do NOT opt into PATHWAYS, are grandfathered in under the old requirements: they must take at least 10 ENL courses (40 credits) to complete the major.
- Students who declare English as their major or switch their major to English after June 30, 2013 must take at least 11 ENL courses (44 credits) to complete the major.

What is Linguistics?

Linguistics is the scientific study of human language; it is concerned with how languages are structured, how they change, and how language is represented in the mind/brain. Linguists therefore study grammar, the social and psychological aspects of how people use language, relationships among different languages and dialects, and how languages change over time. Linguists use various methods to study these topics—including formal analysis, experimental methods, and the investigation of “corpora” (large collections of written or recorded language).

While linguists study language from these different angles, language itself is usually divided into four basic components, each of which is addressed in courses in the CSI English Dept. These are:

Phonetics:
The study of how speech sounds are articulated and perceived in human languages, their acoustic properties, and their measurement. Relevant Courses: ENL 428 (Phonetics) and ENL 448 (Speech Science)

Phonology:
The study of how speech sounds form a system in languages, how they pattern, and the rules that can be used to describe the patterning. Relevant Courses: ENL 449 (English Phonology)

Morphology:
The study of how words are structured in languages, including how they are built from smaller units, like roots, suffixes, prefixes, and other processes, and also how words have meaning. Relevant Courses: ENL 447 (Structure of Words)

Syntax and Semantics:
These areas study sentence grammar: how sentences are structured, and the meanings that result from these structures. Relevant courses: ENL 423 (English Sentence Structure)

Additionally, the following areas address the different perspectives on language described above:

Sociolinguistics
Studies the impact of social factors, such as class, race, region, gender, and ethnicity on how people use and react to language. Relevant Courses: ENL 427 (Sociology of Language)

Psycholinguistics
Studies the cognitive/psychological processes used by humans to store linguistic information in, and retrieve it from, the mind/brain. Relevant Courses: ENL 426 (Language Acquisition & Psycholinguistics)

Historical linguistics
The study of how a language’s grammar (phonology, syntax, and semantics) changes over time. Relevant Courses: ENL 424 (Language Change) and ENL 425 (History of English)

Linguistics is highly relevant to students interested in Education, ESL/Foreign Language Teaching, Law, Publishing, Computer Technology, and careers related to Communication Disorders / Speech Pathology. For more information about the Linguistics Program (including majoring in English/Linguistics), Contact Professor Jason Bishop at jason.bishop@csi.cuny.edu (office 2S-207) or Professor Christina Tortora at christina.tortora@csi.cuny.edu (office 2S-201).

THE ADOLESCENCE EDUCATION SEQUENCE (7-12):

INFORMATION FOR MAJORS WHO WISH TO TEACH HIGH SCHOOL

- You must enroll in EDS 201 in the first semester of your junior year to complete this sequence. To enter the Adolescent Education Sequence, beginning in Fall 2015, you must have a G.P.A. of 3.0. If you are declared in the sequence prior to Fall 2015, you must maintain a GPA of 2.75.
- Please consult the Education Department for further details.
- Please find below an outline of this sequence and note that it is not as flexible as the English Major is. For this reason, you should be sure to complete it according to the guidelines below in order to graduate on time.
- If you complete this sequence as an undergraduate, you have the option of taking an M.A. in English; if you do not complete this sequence as an undergraduate, you will not have this option—rather, you will have to take an M.A. in Education.

ENL 300  BRITISH AND AMERICAN LITERARY TRADITIONS  Reader

A one-semester survey of British and American literature from the Medieval through the Romantic periods. It will include important works from many genres and modes, placing those works in their aesthetic and cultural contexts.

ENL 300  BRITISH AND AMERICAN LITERARY TRADITIONS  Keil

The readings, not giants, should show the contrasts between the two cultures and have a certain profile that can be explored in your responses. Herman Melville’s “Benito Cereno.” Mavis Gallant, “The Moslem Wife,” and Katherine Mansfield, “The Daughters of the Late Colonel.” Poetry of Elizabeth Bishop and Robert Lowell, with writing and other works by his wives, their husbands, and his step-daughter. Two early stories by William Faulkner, “Monk” and “Dr. Martino.” Vladimir Nabokov’s “‘That in Aleppo Once . . .’” Two plays, Timberlake Wertenbaker’s, Our Country's Good and George Farquhar’s The Recruiting Officer. John Cheever’s Falconer. Henry James’s “The Beast in the Jungle.” Abraham Lincoln’s literary references. Benjamin Britten and George Crabbe, Peter Grimes. Please email, inscape44@verizon.net, with questions or comments.

ENL 303  U.S. FICTION: EARLY NATIONAL PERIOD TO LATE 19TH CENTURY  Goldner

This course explores American fiction from the late eighteenth century through the 1870s. During the semester we will investigate fiction of this period as it shapes, and is shaped by, historical and political issues that it casts in terms of individual or personal life. The texts will exploit the benefits of this strategy and test its limits. Themes specific to the United States during this period include concerns of the early republic, US expansion, the role(s) of women, slavery, class, and industrialism. We will read a variety of fictional genres, including the epistolary novel, historical and other modes of romance, and sentimental fiction. In the last text of the course we also will find threads of early realism.
We will read the following texts: Hannah Webster Foster’s The Coquette; James Fenimore Cooper’s The Last of the Mohicans; Harriet Beecher Stowe’s Uncle Tom’s Cabin; William Well’s Brown’s Clotel; Frederick Douglass’s The Heroic Slave; Herman Melville’s “Benito Cereno” and “Bartleby,” Rebecca Harding Davis’s Life in the Iron Mills, and Elizabeth Stuart Phelps’s The Silent Partner. Some of these are novels; others are short stories or novellas.

(For English majors and minors this is designated as a literature, American literature and genre course.)

ENL 309   U.S. LITERATURE IN COMPARATIVE TEXTS

Papa

This course will investigate the traditions of cultural production that arose around the world during the last 100 years, focusing on artistic forms including fiction, nonfiction, theater, music, and film.

(For English majors and minors this is designated as a literature, and American literature.)

ENL 310   WORLD LITERATURE IN CONTEXTS

Ray

The idea and act of journey, of moving from one geographic and cultural location to another, is a central motif in a lot of colonial and postcolonial literature. This course will examine some of the exceptionally diverse forms these journeys have taken—voluntary travel and tourism, colonial expedition, enforced (im)migration, forced displacement, contemporary labor migration under global capital—and the equally diverse ways in which they have been depicted in literature. We will seek to understand the similarities and differences in past and present representations of these journeys, and explore their gender, colonial and postcolonial, and economic dimensions. The aim of this course is to go beyond merely situating the texts in their historical and cultural contexts. We will also question and unravel how they enhance our understanding of the world and of ourselves. Reading list includes: Amitav Ghosh’s Sea of Poppies, Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie’s Americanah, Joseph Conrad’s Heart of Darkness, and selections of short prose and poetry by Chinua Achebe, Pankaj Mishra, Zadie Smith, Luis de Camões, and Charles Baudelaire.

Kudsieh

An exploration of the literatures of several cultures amid specific historical contexts, as well as a study of cultural differences and similarities and cross-cultural influences. This course examines the literature of polities in at least three disparate geographical regions, during at least two historical periods. It engages students in a practice of literary criticism that sets the texts within particular historical formations, even as students pursue cross-cultural study. This course is requirement for all English majors. Not open to students who have completed ENL 365.
ENL 316  MEDIEVAL LITERATURE  Kudsieh

A study of the literature of the medieval period in Europe. Readings may include texts such as Dante’s Divine Comedy, Boccaccio’s Decameron, the romances of Chrétien de Troyes, and the lays of Marie de France. Texts not in English will be read in translation.

(For English majors or minors concentrating in literature, this course fulfills the requirements for literature in translation and literature before 1800.)

ENL 320  ENGLISH LITERATURE OF THE 17TH CENTURY  Feola

In this course we will focus on how various authors treated passion, power, and politics [often simultaneously]. We will approach this dynamic century of revolution by dividing it into its three historical and literary periods: the early seventeenth century, the civil wars and Interregnum, and the Restoration. The syllabus will include works by Queen Elizabeth I, William Shakespeare, John Donne, John Milton, and Aphra Behn.

(For English majors or minors concentrating in literature, this course fulfills the requirements for British Literature and literature before 1800.)

ENL 323  COMING OF AGE NARRATIVE  Saguisag

In this course, we will examine various examples of adolescent literature, a genre that explores the nature of adolescence and theorizes the ways young people negotiate the transition from childhood to adulthood. We will specifically focus on young adult (YA) literature, a subgenre of adolescent literature that is intended for a youth readership. As we read our assigned texts, we will pay special attention to the ways YA literature reflects, promotes and/or interrogates common conceptualizations of adolescence. We will also consider whether these texts suggest the universality or plurality of adolescent experiences. We will supplement our readings by studying representations of adolescence in other forms of media. This course also includes a special thematic unit titled “Growing Up in Dystopia.” In this unit, we will examine and discuss texts that depict the experiences of young people living in environments that are marked by social and political strife.

(For literature concentrators, this course is designated as Genre/Theme.)

ENL 325  READINGS IN VICTORIAN LITERATURE  Reader

A study of important works of poetry, fiction, and nonfiction of the period by such authors as Tennyson, Hopkins, Dickens, G. Eliot, Arnold, Mill, Hardy.

(For English majors and minors, this is designated as a literature and British literature course.)
ENL 335 MODERN ASIAN LITERATURE Dudley

An exploration of the world of Asia through literature. Works of major modern writers of India, China, Japan, and Vietnam will be studied with a view to understanding changing beliefs and values.

(For English majors and minors, this is designated as a literature, literature in translation, and women, minority and world literature course.)

ENL 353 CONTEMPORARY POETRY Gray

An intensive study of several of the most prominent poets living and writing in America and England today.

(For English majors and minors, this is designated as a pre-1800 and genre course.)

ENL 361 THE EARLY SHAKESPEARE Keil

If I could be persuasive, I would study only one play. Since knowing something of the range is expected and needed, here’s a reading list: The Henry VI plays (Signet Edition), and, in the latest Arden editions, The Merchant of Venice, A Midsummer’s Night’s Dream, and Much Ado about Nothing. Also, Christopher Marlow, The Jew of Malta (New Mermaid edition, 2009). Plus, shown on video, the 2004 Trevor Nunn Merchant of Venice. To write about, in part, one other play from this period, your choice. Also, I’ll give out essays on Shakespeare by Tolstoy and Bernard Shaw. Please email, inscape44@verizon.net, with questions or comments.

(For English majors and minors, this is designated as a pre-1800 and British Literature course.)

ENL 372 CRAFT OF POETRY Marvin

Students will explore the use of fundamental poetic devices through their own creative writing. The particular undertaking of employing concrete language to create image will be addressed throughout the course. Students will use assigned texts as models for the creation of original poems. Classroom critique of students' poetry. (Writing)

ENL 373 CRAFT OF PLAYWRITING Papa

This course provides students an introduction to the various elements of playwriting, including plot and character development, staging, and dialogue creation, as well as an opportunity to explore these elements through their own writing and the writing of others.

(For English majors and minors, this is designated as a writing and dramatic literature course.)
ENL 381 MAJOR AMERICAN AUTHOR I: Frederick Douglass Hoeller

Frederick Douglass is without a doubt one of the most famous American writers of the 19th-Century; an escaped slave who wrote a moving and beautiful slave narrative in 1845, he went on to have a long and successful career as a writer and public figure. He not only became the most well-known writer about slavery in the 19th-Century but also came to be seen as a representative American man who embodied the American Dream. Yet, while most readers know multiple works of canonized writers such as Herman Melville or Nathaniel Hawthorne, relatively few people know more about Douglass’s work than his first slave narrative and some of his most famous essays. In this course we will study Douglass’s work in its entire span from his 1845 Narrative of the Life of Frederick Douglass to his two subsequent autobiographies My Bondage and My Freedom (1855) and The Life and Times of Frederick Douglass (1892) as well as his speeches, his one fictional work “The Heroic Slave,” and his work as a publisher. We will be able to get to know Frederick Douglass the writer who wrote about much more than slavery, who reshaped, revised, and expanded his life’s story throughout his long career. We will also study Douglass’s work as a publisher and the contexts of his work: American slavery, abolitionism, other slave narratives, anti-slavery fiction of the time, literacy, women’s rights, post-civil war America, and Douglass’s relevance today. While many Americans today know of Douglass only through his first narrative or excerpts from his most famous essays, we will be able to understand the broader picture of Douglass’s work—his own desires, aspirations, accomplishments, literary influences, and his resistances to the way in which he was presented and read. Indeed, we will begin by examining the ways Douglass is normally brought to students in readers and anthologies only to revisit that issue at the end and to discuss further what is gained and lost by that selected representation of his work. We will read short works by other writers of the time (such as William Wells Brown, Harriet Beecher Stowe, Lydia Maria Child, Harriet Jacobs) to contextualize Douglass’s writings, and you will be introduced to major critical voices on Douglass’s writing. Recommended summer reading and viewing in preparation: Harriet Beecher Stowe’s Uncle Tom’s Cabin, and the recent movie Twelve Years a Slave.

(For English majors and minors, this is designated as a literature and American Literature. *Because of the focus of this course, this course is designated as Women, Minority, and Third-World Literature course for Fall 2015.)

ENL 384 MAJOR WOMAN AUTHOR I: Jane Austen Miller

Intensive study of the works of a major woman author. This semester, we will examine the various works of Jane Austen.

(For English majors and minors, this is designated as a literature and Women, Minority, and Third-World Literature course. *Because of the focus of this course, this course is designated as British Literature for Fall 2015.)
ENL 392  THE BLACK WRITER IN THE MODERN WORLD    Rowden

An intensive study of various recent and contemporary Black authors, writing in all of the literary genres, and their grappling with traditional and changing environments.

(For English majors and minors, this is designated as a literature and Women, Minority, and Third-World Literature and genre course.)

ENL 422  INTRODUCTION TO LINGUISTICS    Tortora

The goal of this course is for you to become familiar with the basics of Linguistics (a field concerned with the scientific study of human language). In this course you will gain an understanding of:

- Phonetics: the study of speech sounds, and how they are produced; you will learn the basics of vocal tract anatomy, and how this relates to sound patterns found in English and in other languages. You will also become proficient in the use of the International Phonetic Alphabet (IPA).

- Phonology: the study of sound systems; you will learn the basics of how speech sounds interact with one another in a rule-governed, systematic way.

- Morphology: the study of the structure of words and word formation processes.

- Syntax: the study of the structure of phrases and sentences.

- Semantics/Pragmatics: the study of linguistic and contextual meaning.

- Child Language Acquisition: the investigation of how children acquire language, and how their acquisition informs our understanding of the above 5 components of language.

- Sign Language: the study of signed languages such as American Sign Language (ASL), and their similarity to spoken languages both in terms of their structure and how they are acquired by children.

- Language variation and change: the study of linguistic diversity, variation, and change.

Since it is assumed that all students in this class speak English, most of our examples (especially in the first half of the term) will be drawn from English. However, because Linguistics is concerned with the study of human language (and not any one particular language alone), examples may also be drawn from a variety of the world's languages (from Africa, Asia, the Pacific Islands, Australia, Europe, and North and South America).
ENL 426  LANGUAGE ACQUISITION AND PSYCHOLINGUISTICS  Benesch

This course explores how babies learn their native language and how children and adults acquire second languages in formal and informal contexts. Various theories will be considered, including behaviorist, innatist, and interactionist. More recent contributions of postmodern theory will also be examined, including the role of social identity (race, class, gender, and ethnicity) in the acquisition of additional (non-native) languages. The acquisition of English as a second language (ESL) in the U.S. and around the world will also be explored, with some attention to ESL teaching methods.

ENL 431  FICTION WORKSHOP  Schulman

An advanced workshop, ENL 431 concerns aspects of formal technique in the writing of fiction. Students' work may be directed toward narrative sequencing, pacing, character development, dialogue, shifts in point-of-view and tense, metafiction, and the many structures to which short and long works of fiction adhere and reinvent. (Writing)

ENL 434  CREATIVE NONFICTION WORKSHOP  Chin

An advanced workshop in creative nonfiction. The class may focus on the outline and structure of nonfiction stories; on reporting techniques; choosing a narrative voice and strategy; and on crafting leads, overtures, and transitions. The workshop will also require substantial readings of nonfiction pieces. Texts may cover: autobiography, memoir, journals, narrative journalism, and literary essays. Class discussion of students' long work. (Writing)

ENL 448  SPEECH SCIENCE  Hagedorn

This course is an introduction to the experimental methods used in the phonetic study of speech. First, students will learn the basic acoustics behind speech and hearing. Second, they will learn to visualize and analyze speech acoustically, using computer software. This knowledge will allow students to carry out mini experiments, in which they record and make measurements of the speech wave. For more information about this course, please contact Prof. Jason Bishop: jason.bishop@csi.cuny.edu (Linguistics)

ENL 465  WRITING FOR THE MEDIA  TBA

Developing skills in writing for traditional electronic media (such as radio and television) as well as new media (such as the Internet). This writing-intensive course emphasizes the translation of ideas into written text or spoken dialogue appropriate to the medium, genre, and target audience, as well as treatments, proposals, and other forms of pre-production writing. (Writing)

English Department FAQ for Undergraduates:

How do I declare a major in English?

You declare a major through the Registrar. In order to declare a major you must satisfy one of the following:

1. Complete 60 credits and have passed all three CUNY Assessment Tests
2. Students who have completed fewer than 60 credits may also declare a bachelor's degree major provided they meet the following criteria:
   a. have passed or are exempt from the three CUNY Assessment Tests
   b. have successfully completed 12 credits at or above the 100 level
   c. have a GPA of 2.00 or above.

What areas of concentration are available for English majors?

The English Department offers concentrations in Literature, Writing, Linguistics, and Dramatic Literature. Additionally, the department offers a Literature concentration for students in the Adolescence Education sequence.

What classes will I be required to take?

All majors are required to take the following courses:

ENL 290: Introduction to the Study of Literature
ENL 300: World Literature in Contexts
ENL 310: British and American Literary Traditions

Each concentration has course requirements and distributions that must be fulfilled.

For more information, check the English Department website or the CSI catalog: http://www.csi.cuny.edu/catalog/undergraduate

How do I find out what courses fulfill which requirements?

Every semester, the English Department puts out a sheet for majors that documents which of the offered courses fulfill various majors’ requirements.

You can find that on the department website: http://www.english.csi.cuny.edu/

Can a single course fulfill more than one requirement?

For the most part, no. The exception is that a single course in the Literature concentration can fulfill the pre-1800 requirement, as well as one other.
I took English courses at another college. Can they count towards my major at CSI?

Yes. You may transfer up to half the credits required by the major. Consult with the department chair or deputy chairs in order to see what credits can be transferred. Be sure to bring your transcript from your previous college, as well as any course descriptions and syllabi.

I have a registration hold. What do I do?

All students must see an English Department Faculty Adviser in order to have holds removed.

Who takes care of advising?

Every full-time professor is available for advising during his or her office hours. As well, we have a full-time advisor, Jennifer Durando, who is available for advisement five days a week. You can find a schedule of office hours outside the English Department office in 2S-218. Or you can call 718-982-3640 to find out who is available.

The class I want to take is full. Can I get an overtally?

Overtallies are allowed only in extremely rare circumstances, such as a course needed in order to graduate that semester. Otherwise, it is the policy of the department not to allow an overtally.

Where can I get help with my writing?

The Writing Center is available to all students on campus. It is located at 2S-216. For more information, call 718-982-3635 or go to the Writing Center web page:
http://www.english.csi.cuny.edu/writing-center.html
ENGLISH MAJORS WISHING TO GRADUATE WITH HONORS

Graduating English majors may apply for graduation with honors in English.

Candidates must:

- Have a grade point average of 3.5 or higher in the major.
- Submit a paper for consideration to the English Department Honors Committee, who will make a recommendation about the candidate’s honors status.

Please note:

- You do not need to submit new work; you may submit a revision or extension of a course paper.
- Research papers, critical papers, and original creative works are acceptable. Candidates must contact an English Department faculty member to supervise the preparation of the paper.
- Because the Honors Committee is rigorous in its selection, you should choose work of the highest quality before meeting with a faculty member.
- Papers submitted to the Honors Committee must have the signature of this faculty member on the title page.

Since a paper may need substantial revision before being submitted to the Honors Committee, you are strongly urged to begin preparing your honors project the semester of graduation.

Successful honors projects are characterized by originality, depth, and critical thinking; many honors papers also include research. Papers must be carefully proofread, and those including research must have accurate MLA citations. Submissions must be typed in clear, letter-quality print and be free of comments by faculty members or others. Papers should be 14-20 pages in length. Please submit one hard copy of your paper signed by the mentoring professor to 2S-218 and one electronic copy of the exact replica of the hard copy in PDF format to Professor Sarah Schulman at sarah.schulman@csi.cuny.edu

Papers for majors graduating in January must be submitted to one of the secretaries in the English Department office (2S-218) by November 20; papers for majors graduating in June or August must be submitted by April 1. No late submissions will be accepted.
GRADUATE WORK IN ENGLISH

Many of our majors have been inquiring about graduate work in English. CSI offers a thirty-credit Master of Arts degree for students who are not pursuing teacher education. For students desiring professional certification as high school teachers of English (adolescence education), thirty-four credits are required for the degree. This option is for students who have initial certification. (Those who do not should contact the Education Department.)

Approximately forty-five students are currently in the program, most taking one or two courses per semester while working full-time. Admission to our non-research-oriented program requires a BA, a major in English, and a 3.0 average. Thirty graduate credits are ordinarily transferable into a Ph.D. program.

A career in college teaching ordinarily requires the Ph.D., which requires approximately four additional years of full-time study (about two years of courses and seminars, a year for examinations, and a dissertation year). Doctoral work often requires a reading knowledge of two and sometimes three foreign languages.

More than one hundred universities in the United States offer the Ph.D., including, in our area, Columbia, the CUNY Graduate School, New York University, and Rutgers University. Admission to many Ph.D. program requires the Graduate Record Examination, which measures verbal, quantitative, and analytical abilities. The Graduate Record Examination can be taken more than once. Most doctoral programs also require the separate Subject Test in Literature in English. While you may apply throughout the year, one ordinarily takes the GRE and completes the application process in the fall of the senior year. GRE scores help students choose appropriate regional or national doctoral programs. Programs frequently require at least one year of full-time study. Adequate financial support is limited, especially in the first year, and particularly in the New York area.

Dr. Katharine Goodland, who advises MA students and coordinates the MA Program in English, will be happy to talk with you about graduate studies. You can contact Dr. Katharine Goodland at 718-982-3639 or katharine.goodland@csi.cuny.edu.
English Department FAQ for Graduate Students

What graduate degrees are offered by the Department of English?

The department offers a Master of Arts degree in one of two area concentrations: Literature and Rhetoric.

What are the admissions requirements?

You must provide the following in order to be considered for admission:

1. Application and application fee
2. Transcripts from any post-secondary school attended. (If you attended the College of Staten Island, you do not need to provide a transcript.)

You also need to have:

1. A Bachelor of Arts degree from an accredited institution
2. At least 32 credits of undergraduate courses in English (excluding freshman composition)
3. A cumulative grade point average of 3.0 (B) or a grade point average of 3.0 (B) in English courses

What is the application deadline?

Admissions for spring are November 15 and for fall July 15. Admissions begin with a student contacting CSI’ Graduate Admissions Office.

Is the GRE or GRE Subject Test required?

No.

How many courses do I have to take?

If you are not seeking professional certification as a high school teacher of English, you must complete 30 credits:

Literature: Seven courses (28 credits), including at least five courses in literature at the 700 level. You must take at least one course in English literature before 1800.

Rhetoric: Seven courses (28 credits), including three in linguistics, writing, or the teaching of writing at the 600 level. The remaining four courses are in literature at the 700 level. You must take at least one course in English literature before 1800.

Additionally, all students must take a two-credit course, ENG 892, which concludes with an exit exam.
If you are seeking professional certification as a high school teacher of English, you must also take EDS 692 Advanced Methods of Teaching Secondary School English (3 credits) and Independent Study in Education (1 credit)

You must also take eight credits of English courses linking content and pedagogy. See the online catalog for a list of accepted courses:

http://www.csi.cuny.edu/catalog/graduate/english_degree.html

What else is required to graduate?

You must complete two Master’s papers. These are written under the supervision of the graduate professor for whom you originally wrote the paper and with the consultation of the MA Coordinator. Also, you must pass an exit exam based on three of the courses you have taken.

Do I need a foreign language?

No.
Literature concentrators must complete 11 courses (44 credits) in English beyond general education requirements. Three of these courses (12 credits) must be ENL 290 (formerly ENH 218), ENL 300 (formerly ENL 376), and ENL 310 (formerly ENL 365). At least five courses (20 credits) must be ENL literature courses. Up to three courses (12 credits) may be non-literature ENL courses.
